Outlook for The Coming Session (April 09, 2019): Despite previous session's closing with a Doji, which indicated some breather can be seen in selling, the bears continued Massacre and continued destroying major support areas. During today's session, Monthly Support Level 2 and Current Week's Support Level 1 were broken, while closing was below 36,960, indicating the bears are not ready to give up. On the other hand, the volumes gave a surprise, as KSE100 Index Stocks generated the highest volume after March 29, 2019 which suggests that selling pressure was countered well by buyers. Now RSI stands below 30, which means things are getting extremely oversold. However, the key level to break on short term charts is 37,300, which will put the index out of impulsive selling pressure. Hence the conclusion is that Day Traders would still be seen at the edge of their seats, as high volatility is about to be witnessed in coming 1-2 sessions. While, the stronger ones would be countering aggressive selling pressure at every low.

First support is seen at 36,800 – 38,660 area, and index bears need to close an hourly candle below 36,650, in order to expose Weekly Support Level 2 @ 36,500 – 36,480 area, followed by the lowest level of last year at 36,275.

On The Upside... Index needs to break 37,550 and close an hourly candle with impressive volumes, in order bring some excitement and put 37,880 – 38,050 on cards. While closing a session above 38,200 with higher volumes, would be seen as a big blow to bears.

Outlook for The Week (April 08 to 12, 2019): Since the week ending on March 15, 2019, the index remained under consolidation and with closing of previous 2 weeks with Doji it was confirmed that the bears were taking a breather, as during last week they attacked the charts so brutally that index was pushed to Monthly Support Level 2 along-with Monthly Range Bottom zone. While fading volumes were another signal of continued nervousness from traders buyers, even at such low levels. During the past week, the index opened at 38,634, which was lower than previous week's closing, went to as low at 37,307 and closed the week at 37,522. While volumes from KSE-100 Index Stocks were at 279 Million. Noting that the closing as well as the volumes were at their lowest for the year 2019, on Weekly Terms.

Expected Levels for the Week: Multiple support between 37,200 & 36,800 have potential to trigger aggressive short covering and buying, due to which a Slingshot effect based corrective move is on cards. This corrective move has potential put index above 38,200 area, during the coming week. While sustaining above 38,440 in session closing terms, would be calling further recovering towards 38,880 – 39,150, where the corrective wave is like to be completed. On The Flipside.... Failure to hold the critical support are at 36,800, would be putting the index into a new bearish channel, where 36,200 & 35,800 would be the next immediate levels to watch out.

Outlook for The Coming Month (April 2019): As discussed in the previous Monthly Outlook, the Spinning Top pattern kept index under choppy and indecisive mode, while lack of participation narrowed the range. The Month of March 2019, was the first month since August 2016, where the benchmark of 40K was not even tested, and during the month index saw a high of 39,955 and went to as low as 38,040 before ending the month at 38,649. And if we look at the volumes, the stocks from KSE-100 index generated 1.46 Billion Shares, the lowest monthly figure since October 2018. Closing of the month below 38,900 keeps bears on the front-foot, however, the Doji* pattern (Refer to Chart / Candlestick Pattern Explanation on Page 2) suggests that it is going to be a very choppy, indecisive and thin ranged month ahead.

Levels for April 2019: Closing the month below 38,900 suggest that bears would remain in control, with 38,100 – 37,900 as their first target, while closing a session below 37,800 (Monthly Support Level 1) would be pushing the index to a deadly and brutal bearish zone, where next immediate support would be lying at 37,300 - 37,100, where bottom of the range for the month is seen. Noting that this is the region where multiple supports are lying and this is where buying support must be seen, in order to protect the market from a crash. If not, then be ready for 35,800 & the expected support for the year 2019 at 34,000 – 33,800 area. On The Upside.... Unless a week closes above 39,700, the index is likely to remain under bearish pressure. However, surpassing the indicated resistance would be help it to sail in safe waters, with 40,550 & 40,700 as next immediate target range for the month.

RSI is at 28, indicating that the Index is in Extremely Oversold Region.

Explanation of Candlestick Pattern(s) Used in This Report

Doji: As the name suggests, the Doji indicates “Dodging” pattern or indecisiveness. The candlestick looks like a cross, or a “plus” sign, suggesting that neither the bears nor the bulls got hold onto the trend and closing was at or near the mid point.*
